THIRD LIBERTY LOAN POSTERS NOW READY

To Be Distributed to Every City and Hamlet in the United States.

WILL APPEAL TO ALL Prominent American Artists Are the Designers—Give Their Work Gratis.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 30.—Posters proclaiming the Third Liberty Loan in striking phrases and colorful designs—nine million of them in more than a dozen styles—are now being distributed to every city and hamlet of the United States.

They are the silent sales agents of the bonds, and their preparation has taken months of planning and careful choosing. Hardly had the Second Liberty Loan campaign closed before the country's foremost artists and designers were invited to go to work on posters for the third loan.

The result is a collection of striking posters, considered artistically and psychologically better than any yet attempted in the two previous loan drives. Soon they will be familiar sights in store windows, on bill boards, and all public places.

In addition, five million window stickers, 50,000,000 poster stamps and 16,000,000 badges have been ordered and will be ready for the opening day of the campaign.

Some of the designers of the Liberty Loan posters are Howard Chandler Christy, Joseph Pennell, J. C. Leyendecker, Sydney Riesenber, Herbert Paus, Henry Raleigh and Sydney S. Stern. All contributed their work without pay, and scores of other artists submitted designs which were reluctantly rejected.

Many Striking Designs.

One of the most striking posters, that of Joseph Pennell, the Philadelphia marine artist, portrays a great battleship alongside wharves bustling with war-time activity—motor trucks, swinging cranes and smoking stacks, with airplanes overhead. It is executed in etching style, and the title subscribed is: "Provide the Sinews of War; Buy Liberty Bonds."

Howard Chandler Christy contributed a stirring design. A slim, young, modernized goddess of liberty waves aloft an American banner, and with outstretched arm points to a file of soldiers marching past. "Fight or Buy Bonds" is the title.

A poster which will arrest instant attention shows a steel-helmeted American soldier springing from a trench and bearing a billowing American flag. Over the top for you—Buy U. S. Government Bonds—Third Liberty Loan is the message it carries. The work was done by Sydney Riesenber.

The figure of a little girl clasping a Liberty Bond to her breast, adorns one of the posters with this subscription: "My Daddy Bought Me a Government Bond, Third Liberty Loan. Did Yours?" Publicity directors of the loan regard it as one of the most appealing of their entire collection.

Appeal to Farmers Also.

An agricultural poster depicts a farmer lad in khaki bidding farewell to his father, saying: "Good-bye, Dad, I'm Off to Fight for Old Glory. You Buy U. S. Government Bonds."

For billboards, the publicity manager has arranged a huge design of a soldier asleep, with No Man's Land in the distance, and above him in a vignette the embodiment of his dreams of victory—cheering troops marching homeward. "Make His Dreams Come True," the poster preaches. "Buy U. S. Government Bonds. Third Liberty Loan."

Another poster portrays a child at his mother's knee, praying for the safety and victory of his brother in France, in these words:

"Now I lay me down to sleep. I pray the Lord my soul to keep. God bless my brother gone to war. Across the seas, in France so far. Oh, may he fight for Liberty, Save millions more than little me From cruel fates or ruthless blast, And bring him safely home at last."

MOCK TRIAL AT HIGH SCHOOL

Harold Pollen Sentenced to Separation From His Sweetheart.

According to the jury's verdict in a mock trial held by the Current Events Club at the Columbia High School Tuesday afternoon, Harold Pollen, the defendant, is to endure six weeks' separation from his sweetheart, and is not to be allowed to sit on the Christian College Wall.

Pollen was convicted of running over Miss Sadie Stean and Miss Jewell Hughes. The lawyer for the defence introduced several witnesses who testified that the accused was of good character. Miss Stean and Miss Hughes appeared in court, wearing bandages as a result of the accident. They testified that when Pollen approached he was lost in deep thought. When he ran over them he repeatedly murmured the name of his sweetheart, they said.

The jury rendered a verdict of guilty. Those serving as jurors were: Misses Sally Love Banks, Laura Lewis, Catherine Tandy, Mary Venable, Anna Durand and Jonas Viles, George Clark Harold Green, Walter Reese, James Taylor, Eugene Bowman and Ernest Fisher. The judge was Ermont Montgomery. Frank Sutton and Kenneth Craig were the sheriffs.

PEACEFUL TRACTOR EVOLVES INTO TANK

From Farm to Battlefield Is Story of American Invention.

USED BY BRITISH Effective at the Somme and at Cambrai—Conserve Lives of Soldiers.

And the worm turned—from a harmless farm tractor into the tank, the fighting machine most dreaded by the Germans. It was the caterpillar which gave Benjamin Holt of California the idea for a tractor which could pass over rough ground and through marshes and deep sand. And it was the ability to do this which caused the British to introduce it into warfare. The tanks are movable forts which demolish barbed wire entanglements, go over shell holes and trenches, go through brick walls and smash down trees. They do their best work when going at the rate of only two and one-half miles an hour, and their maximum speed is only four. These lumbering monsters are 23 feet long, 9 feet wide, 8 feet high and weigh about 25,000 pounds with the heavy armor plate which covers them. They are equipped with field guns which are fired as they approach the enemy. Machine gun bullets, three-inch shells and rifle bullets have no effect on the armor of the tanks. It is only the heavy artillery which can stop them and this is ineffective if the tank gets close enough, because the big guns cannot be depressed so as to make a square hit.

Tanks have no wheels, but crawl on corrugated belts. Each side is under independent control, so that the machine can be turned around in its own length. The center of gravity is far back and not more than a foot and a half above the ground.

Tractors were used as trucks early in the war, but it was not until the battle of the Somme that they were used as tanks. In the big British drive before Cambrai, the tanks drove the entering wedge which broke the Hindenburg line and proved their value in sparing the lives of men and conserving ammunition. Tanks are used after the artillery firing to clear the way for the attack of the infantry. They clear the way so well that the infantry suffers but slight loss.

While the armored brother is fighting in France, the caterpillar tractor at home is reclaiming thousands of acres of marsh land which otherwise would always remain useless. And all the rest of the forty or fifty types of tractors are working hard to increase crop production.

"Tractors have been used more in Kansas and Iowa and other states of level surface than in Missouri," says E. W. Lehmann, professor of farm machinery. "But there are between 1,800 and 2,000 tractors in this state. Many are being sent to France to replace man power in producing crops. Between 1,500 and 2,000 will go this year and tractor companies are sending experts to teach the use of them. "Tractors were first used on the northwestern wheat fields and often pulled as many as eighteen plows. The engine in these tractors was very hard to crank and the outfit was unwieldy for the average farmer. But they have been gradually improved and reduced in size until now they ordinarily have just three plows."

The tractor is coming into greater use, says Professor Lehmann, on account of the shortage of farm labor. Tractors can do three times as much work as a team of horses.
